Digital Fundamentals Tenth Edition. News Blues News Blues Begin Playoff Push October 02, 2012 The St. Louis Blues will have their hands full on this week's road trip, beginning with a three-game Eastern Conference series against the Montreal Canadiens, then flying out to Chicago for a game against the Blackhawks before finishing off the weekend with two games against the Eastern-leading New York Rangers. With a trip to the playoffs on the line, the Blues will have to keep their intensity up for each and every game in their attempt to maintain home-ice advantage throughout their best-of-seven series against the Canadiens. "We know it's going to be a tough series, but we feel like we played them tough last year," said defenseman Barret Jackman. "When we played them in April (4-2 loss), I didn't think we played as well as we did in that series. We'll have to play a good two and a half (more) games and try to get as many points as we can to guarantee ourselves a spot. That's going to be our focus every game. It's going to be a hard series because these guys have played so well all year. They're hungry." Although Blues Head Coach Ken Hitchcock hasn't revealed much about his team's game plans, it's very evident that he'll be an aggressive tactician in the final weeks of the regular season. With that in mind, here's a list of potential line combinations based on faceoffs - a key facet of Blues hockey - that the Blues would prefer to see deployed on the ice as early as Thursday night in Montreal:
