Ardent loves Saints Row. No, it's not true, but it's certainly true that we wish it were. We've managed to meet with Valve to explain this to them. The fact is that the Fallout: New Vegas - Point Lookout DLC is just an arse, so we felt it would be prudent to make other plans for our little parasitic hitchhiker. We're making a Saints Row game. By the time you read this, the first build will have been sent to the publishers. They want us to polish it for a few weeks before releasing, but that's fine with us. We'll have more to say about the game in the near future. You know the drill. We can't wait to show you what we have in store. How To Play It's like Lego Racers, but straight. And we have guns, lots of guns. What It's Like To Play Saints Row exists in our universe, and it won't ever be gone because it's on Steam and everyone in the world (well, everyone who has a Steam account) has to play it. That's pretty much the best thing ever. New Vegas - Point Lookout is inspired by the video game, Fallout: New Vegas. While many big name games have copied some of the aspects of New Vegas, it's hardly the first title to do so, and it certainly won't be the last. The sci-fi setting of New Vegas also provides the perfect excuse to jam as much naughty fun as possible into a sci-fi setting. Sure, we could have named this thing Fallout: Church Of The Damned or something, but "Saints Row: The Casino" would be a bit bland, wouldn't it? We're also grateful to have found a way to utilise the Steam network too. We have friends and family playing already, and if you buy this and invite them to your friends list, they can get free copies too. It's like Christmas! We're very excited to show this to you and reveal the full size of this beast, but before we do that, we need to go through a little bit of the introductory business. Steam Keys! Below are all the Steam keys you will need. Assuming you have not already bought New Vegas - Point Lookout on Steam, you will need a

Tora! is developed by Team Okete. Tora! is a second person game where you have to protect your character from enemies in a top down perspective. You can play this game on the World Wide Web at The success of the game of course depends on the player's support. Don't forget to support the project. After the game is finished we will be making a "best of game" into a full version. Permission is granted by Team Okete to use music and sounds from their game Tiger Fighter 1931 Tora! In this video I talk about the very first episode of BLACK OPS 3 and it's background. You have to look at how the show was marketed and target a specific audience. You have to look at how military things have and what all the history of it all means in a story. Enjoy and comment below! STAY TUNED FOR MORE INFO. XOXO, Ron XOXO Jiang Hui Your browser is a ghost town, but it's 2020. The world's population has vanished and human civilization has collapsed. Years of natural and manmade disaster, starvation and disease have left you with only memories and radio signals to reclaim what was lost. The world you knew no longer exists. Your mother and father no longer drive you to school. Your friends no longer run after you. There are no food. But you have a functional knowledge of a gun, and your hunter instincts are keen. Or they were as long as you could remember. In this post-apocalyptic world where you have to survive, will you prevail? What's new in Tiger Fighter 1931 Tora! MP019:

In the Funko Pops section of the watercooler, this is kind of a big story. I know it was out awhile ago, but didn't work out for anyone else, which was weird (it's so good for him, I just want it to spread! And to get paid! And what about all the people who worked on it? Why aren't there people paid?). It was designed by the lovely Junji Hirata, who I always hope doesn't launch any more creative endeavors, lest they be overmatched by the exponentially bigger comedic genius of EVANGELION's Hajime Katsuragi. (The robot fashion designer is definitely up there in quality-thank you Character Options, and his acoustic guitar). Anyway, for those of you just now encountering Hirata's work (I've been on hiatus for a year)-or for those that just can't afford it-this is a retroprint of Del Rey's "Tiger Fighter" on a deluxe Tiger Funko Pop. I am the Fly Queen, which is a comic by Beth Haydon, and it's adorable. I was kind of sad when this box came across my desk, but I am thrilled now. I am not a Christian Science practitioner, but I know that in a case involving a bi-literate, maturing, Civil War-weary smartass, it is easy to convince myself that a forgiving, enchantingly doorknob of a book is what got her through. I am also a Big Fan of Misadventures of Margaret, which is also typically underappreciated (though well-written, as the first installment). I need to publish this in addition to the other things I've done as Margaret, but I am not a glutton for cookies and I am not at the point where I would call the crank calls "I love you, don't kill yourself," from the late, great William Gibson. So we won't publish it until it's complete. We also have an understanding as to how the omniscient throne of the universe may stop our puny human plans for a single six-bit computer to work. I mean, we shouldn't be taking orders from our computers anyway, but I still think we should be free to try. As long as we don't get deep
