At just 22 years old, Corey Feldman has been involved in comedy, music and acting for nearly his whole life. He's best known for his work in the 1990's as the lead of the long-running sitcom "Living Dolls", but he has had a prolific career in the 1990's and 2000's and has gotten back in the spotlight recently, as he guest starred in popular TV shows like "The Big Bang Theory" and "The Millers". Feldman has also been vocal about sexual abuse he's been through, and he has received a lot of attention over the past few years, speaking out about his own experiences of being molested by a Hollywood executive and his father who was a Hollywood figure. He said that, as a result of his experiences, he is now working to protect other young people from these kinds of situations. In this joint interview with Greg Jackson, Corey Feldman explains why he decided to speak out about his experiences, the challenges of being a celebrity, and also gives his thoughts on the importance of remembering the victims of childhood sexual abuse, and the importance of encouraging every child to always trust their instincts. Corey Feldman recently spoke with Greg Jackson about his work to end childhood sexual abuse, and spoke about how going public with this issue has allowed him to encourage a new generation of survivors to speak up about their abuse. In our exclusive interview with Corey Feldman, Corey explains why he feels he needs to speak out about what he's experienced, but also how he's made a conscious decision to not become too reliant on the number of stories he shares. He's also talked about why he thinks it's important to engage with kids at younger and younger ages, and why he's hopeful that kids today will be able to be much more aware than he was as a kid. During his time in Hollywood, Feldman says he was raped, pressured into sexual activity, and had sex with strangers for paying jobs. He explains that he went through some difficult periods as a result of this, as he got into drugs and alcohol, but says that he learned to handle his difficulties and that he's learning to be a better person as he gets older. He's also discussed how he feels about the recent developments in how stories about sexual abuse are being discussed, including the idea that it's often more effective to discuss
