I need to do this as a favor to a friend who is extremely busy, and I don't want to bother him/her with this. I am not sure about how to find people I like, based on their writing style; it is difficult to describe in one word. What can I do? A: You could ask him/her on your blog or social media, or maybe you could be mentioned in one of your books. If you don't want to bother him/her, consider giving him/her one of your stories as a gift (assuming it's a short story that might not take up too much of your friend's time). Q: Selecting and Ordering multiple tables in Access 2007 I have a main table which I will call MainTable. There is a second table which I will call Lineltem. It references MainTable by using the ID as the key. I also have a third table which I will call ProductionOrder. This table has a column which stores the ID of a row in Lineltem. I need to select all of MainTable, Lineltem, and ProductionOrder and sort them by the ID of MainTable. I am able to sort MainTable with the following: SELECT * FROM MainTable ORDER BY ID How do I also include Lineltem and ProductionOrder? A: SELECT * FROM [MainTable] INNER JOIN [Lineltem] ON [MainTable].ID= [Lineltem].ID INNER JOIN [ProductionOrder] ON [Line
